

Epicor – Next-Generation Enterprise Applications

The tools that people use to conduct business today have changed. Business is everywhere, business is real-time and business is always online. The Internet and ubiquitous mobility play an essential part in the daily lives of the information-hungry global economy. The world has changed and with Epicor, ERP has too.

Epicor next-generation enterprise applications represent a game changing opportunity for business. Epicor is designed for the way people work today, is built for business, yet is ready for change. Epicor delivers business without barriers.

Gone are the technology barriers, integration barriers and accessibility barriers that stifle productivity. In their place is a newfound level of collaboration, visibility, and results. With Epicor True SOA[™], our uniquely configurable global ERP platform, and far-reaching functionality, we are redefining the enterprise application software experience.

Epicor raises technology to a level that delivers unprecedented Business Management and supports continuous performance through real-time, in-context Business Insight. At the core of Epicor is an adaptable and collaborative Business Architecture that satisfies the needs of any enterprise—regardless of country, industry or device—to enable Business Anywhere.
